

JAIL OHIO MAYOR ON LIQUOR CHARGE

CHECK UP ON PROGRESS, IS PLEA TO CLUB

Dr. D. V. Courtright Fears
Nation Losing Sight of Constitution.

Warning his hearers to slip out of the rushing current of modern life and to check up on the drift of "progress," Dr. D. V. Courtright delivered an interesting address Thursday before the Rotary club in which he urged another anchor hold on the original constitution of the United States.

He deplored the system of education which is making white collar agitators and killing off the skilled craftsman; the pursuit of idleness which considers only the end and not the means, and the trend toward socialistic government through the medium of reformers and paternalist legislation.

SURVIVAL OF UNFIT

"What are we raising our sons and daughters to be?" Dr. Courtright asked. "It seems that they all want to go to college whether or not they are fit. There should be some way of culling out these aspirants for a great percentage are not especially benefited because they are not so mentally moulded. They make failures, become disgruntled, are too good to work, have a smattering of knowledge which is dangerous and of this stuff agitators, malecontents and the never failing crop of reformers are made.

"We are doing all we can to make this nation the survival of the unfit. Those parents who should not bear children have the largest families. The only way to eliminate the feeble-minded, the insane and the criminal is to stop the breed. If more attention were given to the qualification of laws concerning marriage and less to so much paternalistic government and if one half the care and attention was given to the ancestors of the next generation as is given to our livestock, the gain would be great."

ASSAULTS REFERENDUM

Dr. Courtright assailed the initiative and referendum as making more delegates out of legislative representatives who carry out orders of using their brains and experience to bring the greatest good to the greatest number. Through the referendum, Dr. Courtright said, disgruntled minorities are able to take advantage of general apathy among voters to push their pet projects into power. He urged his hearers not to overlook the certain fundamental laws and principles upon which the government must rely if it wishes to exist as it was intended.

The Rotary club voted to indorse the petition of the Scioto Valley Railway & Power Co. for a permit from the Ohio utilities commission to operate a bus line between Columbus and Chillicothe to augment the electric traction service.

2 MEN ARE KILLED IN CROSSING CRASH

XENIA, O., March 22.—Two men, each about 65 years old, were instantly killed at the Jamestown pike crossing, east of here, today, when a fast Pennsylvania passenger train struck the small auto in which they were riding.

They were identified as John A. Parker, Millersburg, and William Edge, Jeffersonville.

The auto was completely demolished and the bodies were badly mangled.

CELLMATE KILLER IS FACING CHAIR

CLEVELAND, March 22.—James T. Mevins, lake sailor, who killed Don Prentiss, of Detroit, his cellmate in the county jail here by beating him to death with a lead pipe, will be taken tomorrow to the Ohio penitentiary where he is scheduled to die in the electric chair. Date for Mevins' execution was set at July 1, late yesterday. His attorneys, who have contended he is insane, announce they will ask a new trial.

Hoover Facing Great Task in Naming Commission to Investigate Dry Laws

Difficult To Find Outstanding
Personages Who Are Neutral On Issue.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Picking a cabinet was a tough job, but President Hoover has found one equally as difficult and possibly even more trying. It is the task of selecting the men who are to compose his commission to investigate the causes of and the remedies for the widespread lawlessness that has sprung up in the wake of prohibition.

He devoted a lot of time to considering the make-up of this commission while still a president-elect, and since his entry into the White House it has occupied more of his attention than any other single problem.

After weeks of consultations and investigations, there still remain on his desk nearly 100 names, from which the nine or 11 will be chosen. Some decisions are understood to have been reached, but the personnel is still far from complete. He hopes to announce it shortly before the new congress convenes.

HUGHES OUT OF IT

Mr. Hoover had hoped to persuade Charles Evans Hughes to head the commission. That hope is now understood to have been abandoned. Hughes sails for Europe on May 1 to take up his duties as a justice on the bench of the world court.

While the commission will be formed to investigate all kinds of lawlessness, Mr. Hoover realizes—and so does political Washington—that in the final analysis it comes down principally to prohibition. Therein lies the difficulty. He hopes to present a commission of judiciously-minded persons who have not been identified with either side of the bitter wet-and-dry argument that has been going on now for nearly 10 years. It is no easy task to find nine or 11 judiciously-minded people who have been neutral on the question of prohibition, and who at the same time are "big" enough to inspire the respect and confidence of the public generally.

If he appoints outstanding prohibitionists, the whole investigation at once loses caste and affords the so-called liberals the opportunity to say that the commission is "packed" and that prohibition is being investigated by its friends.

AINTREE, Eng., March 22.—Gragalach, owned by Mrs. M. A. Gemmell, of England, won the Grand National steeplechase today over a heavy field.

Easter Hero, J. H. Whitney's entry, and favored at the start to win, finished second. Richmond II was third.

Out of between 60 and 70 horses which started, only 22 remained after the eighth jump. Easter Hero was running strong among the leaders of the field.

Gragalach paid 100 to 1; Easter Hero paid nine to one, and Richmond II, 40 to one.

Gragalach, by winning, won a purse valued at about $65,000 for his owner.

Sixty-six horses ran. Twenty-two remained in the running at the end of the first round of the course. Easter Hero was prominent in the running through the first two jumps, "Beavers Brook" and "Valentine Brook," and at the "Canal Turn" on the course.

FARMER NEAR DEATH AFTER CARS COLLIDE

Samuel Boggs, Pickaway-twp
and Daughter-in-law, Are Wreck Victims.

Samuel Boggs, 70, widely known Pickaway-twp farmer, was probably fatally injured at noon Friday when the Ford coupe he was driving collided head-on with another auto seven miles north of Chillicothe on the Scioto Trail.

The accident occurred when Mr. Boggs, who resides about eight miles south of Circleville, was driving north, accompanied by his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Ralph Boggs.

It is said that when Mr. Boggs attempted to pass a truck his auto skidded on the slippery highway. The driver lost control of it and it crashed into a Studebaker sedan driven by G. C. Hoover, of Portsmouth.

SKULL FRACTURED

Mr. Boggs suffered a compound fracture at the base of the skull and the fracture of both sides of his lower jaw. His daughter-in-law suffered a wrenched back and the probable fracture of several ribs. Mr. Hoover was uninjured. Both autos were badly damaged.

Efforts to stop several passing automobiles for aid were unsuccessful until Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Drumbeller, of Buena Vista, who were driving to Columbus in their Ford truck arrived at the scene of the accident.

Mr. Drumbeller turned around and took the injured pair to the Chillicothe City hospital where Mr. Boggs was to undergo an X-Ray examination Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Ralph Boggs is a sister of Mrs. Joseph Ellis, formerly of Circleville, whose husband was killed at Lorain some months ago when his auto was struck by a train.

MORALITY IS DEBATE TOPIC

Lutheran Brotherhood Decides World Is Growing Better Each Day.

The morals of today and those of yesterday were discussed in a heated debate Thursday night at the regular monthly meeting of the Trinity Lutheran Brotherhood which was held in the social rooms of the parish house. The subject of the debate which held the interest of the large number of members present was: "Resolved That the Morals of Today are Growing Better." The speakers for the affirmative were J. R. Noecker and Charles H. Walters. Those of the negative were Charles L. Mack and Harry Kerns.

The affirmative was named winner by a vote of two to one by the judges who were H. H. Groce, Festus Walters and George C. Gearhart. Their discussions dealt with the subject in such a manner that "the morals of today are no worse than those of days gone by" was the argument.

The affirmative was discussed from the time of Adam and Eve when the earth was 100 per cent immoral. From that time on, the morals of Biblical history were traced. Mr. Walters spoke of the conditions of the present day. He stressed the wonderful spirit that exists now among the different denominations of Christianity, citing the recent forum at the Memorial hall, Columbus, where four men of four different beliefs spoke on one program, each giving reasons for his religion. In days gone by this would have been impossible, he said.

The negative dwelt on the alleged immorality of the younger generation, of the new inventions which make crime easy, of obscene moving pictures, and especially of the automobile. All the speeches had been carefully prepared.

Frank Mason was chairman of the luncheon committee for the evening. Others on the committee were Noah List, C. A. Leist, W. L. Mack, Arthur Maiden, D. R. Martin, Harry Merz, G. M. Newton, H. A. Bumbarner and Meinhardt, M. Crites.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Speakman were visitors in Columbus Wednesday.

Hundreds of Dollars Paid For Single Gladioli Bulb Created by Dr. Bales

Circleville Physician Develops
Great Business Out of
Garden Hobby.

Some years ago, a man who paid $1000 for a single flower bulb, would have been put under observation as a prospective patient for the nearest mad house. But at the present time such a price is all in the day's work and expense at Dr. Blenn R. Bales' remarkable Triangle Flower Farms, where "You're Mighty Welcome" is the delightful and typical slogan of the owner. This commercial cultivation of flowers has grown rapidly from a hobby in his own back yard, to a business of monstrous size.

The Bales' flower farms is another reason for Circleville's name being printed on the new maps. It is a business that is becoming known all over the states and Canada. Orders amounting to more than 1,000,000 bulbs in one year have been shipped not only to almost every state in the Union, but to Canada, Australia, and Europe. Most of these bulbs were gladioli. This flower is Dr. Bales' specialty. Although he does grow tulips, lilies, daffodils, irises, with a summer hyacinth filling an important place this year.

Everyone is familiar with the sight of the 35 acres of blooming flowers at the Triangle Farms south of Circleville and with the jovial disposition of the owner. Few, however, have any idea of the planning, work, time and money involved in the growing of these gorgeous blossoms. Each flower has a family history and a number famous row everywhere were originated by Dr. Bales.

NEW VARIETIES CREATED

Among the gladioli are Mary of Mine, Rose Mary, and Blenn. The second for Rose Mary Jackson and the last, for Dr. Bales' son. The Rose Mary bulb was $30 or $750, and the others are brought results just as satisfactory.

This year Dr. Bales will introduce three new gladioli—the Glimp o' Gold, Barton and Nasturtium. Barton is the name of his small grandson.

The most interesting part of all of these new creations is the manner in which they are bred or pollinated. Dr. Bales' description of this sounds like a solution to a cross word puzzle. However, the more beautiful the flower the more intricate the pollination. When these treated flowers go to seed, the seeds are gathered and carefully planted the next year. These produce tiny bulbets, the size varying from that of an ordinary pea, to a shelled hickory nut, according to the individual bulbs that are being used.

In another year these bulbets are planted and they produce bulbs, that in turn are planted the following year, and the result of the crossing of the flowers is learned with the unfolding of the first blossom. It may be something more beautiful than anticipated or it may be a keen disappointment.

When the blooming season is past, the bulbiferous plants are taken from the ground. Each variety is kept distinct by the numbers and name on the thousands of stakes that mark off the different beds. The paint on these stakes alone, each year is more than the amount used to paint an ordinary house with two coats.

The bulbs are placed on drying racks until free from dampness and are ready to be taken to the warehouse at the end of Highest for the winter. This warehouse contains 7500 square feet of floor space and is heated to 45 degrees all winter.

DISEASE PREVENTION

When hibernated in winter each bulb is placed in a solution of mercury solution and left for three hours to 100 degrees. If a bulb has been injured it must be grown for two years and examined twice before it is sent to inspectors before it is sold.

The blooming season at the farm where the gladioli are raised is a happy one for the tourists. Each year a large number of people come to see the flowers. The gladioli are planted in rows, and the flowers are in full bloom. The gladioli are planted in rows, and the flowers are in full bloom. The gladioli are planted in rows, and the flowers are in full bloom.

EX-GOVERNOR SUES FOR COTTAGE RENT

NEW PHILADELPHIA, March 22.—Seeking collection of $500 that he alleges is due him from the letting of a cottage at Indian Lake last summer, former Gov. Vic A. Donahy today filed suit in the county court against H. L. Bonham, who had estate located here.

Donahy charged that Bonham occupied the cottage at the Indian Lake resort near Bonham, during the months of May, June and July. The former chief executive alleged that the agreed consideration was $100 a month.

PONTIUS RITES ARE HELD HERE

Throng of Friends Reveal
Esteem Given To Former
Probate Judge.

The esteem and affection with which Judge George H. Pontius was regarded in Circleville was manifested in the crowds that thronged the Methodist church Thursday afternoon at the time of the funeral services. The array of beautiful flowers that filled the front of the church, were the expressions of sympathy that had arrived from friends and relatives in Circleville, New York City, Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Toledo and the state of New Mexico. Present at the funeral were friends and admirers of Mr. Pontius from Columbus, Cincinnati, Chicago, Mt. Sterling and Ashville.

Rev. Franklin McElfresh of the Methodist church preached a wonderful sermon, and included in the service were several hymns, including "Abide With Me," "My Jesus as Thou Wilt" and "Oh God Our Help in Ages Past." These were sung by a quartet consisting of Mrs. Ray Reid, Mrs. Edwin Bach, Mr. Ed. Ebert and Meeker Terwilliger.

In addition to the personal friends of the Pontius family several organizations in which Mr. Pontius had been an active member attended in groups. Among these were the Pickaway Bar association, the Bankers' association, the Knights of Pythias, and the Knight Templars.

As the funeral cortege was leaving the church, the chimes at the court house were played. The pallbearers were Fred F. Griner, Fred Nicholas, Clark Will, Mack Noggle, Noah Warner, Oscar Howard, Meeker Terwilliger and Wade Cook.

STATE AGENTS SEIZE MARKED 'BRIBE' MONEY

Campaign Against "Crooked"
Public Officials Is Resum-
ed At Dover.

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., March 22.—Mayor Peter J. Groh, of Dover, Ohio, near here, was thrown in the county jail here today and ordered held without bond allegedly in connection with an investigation of "liquor traffic" made by three state prohibition agents. Names of the prohibition agents were not known, and efforts to reach them failed.

Little else could be definitely established except that Mayor Groh, who is serving his second term in public office, was thrown in jail and that he is held without bond.

IN DURANT CONTEST

Apparently well-founded reports say, however, that the dry agents using marked money, "bribed" the mayor to allow a transport of liquor to be run through his city.

Groh is 50 years of age. In the recent William Durant $25,000 contest for the best means to stop liquor violations, the mayor submitted three essays.

Dover is immediately adjacent to this city. It has a population of about 8,000.

BEETHAM AROUSED

COLUMBUS, O., March 22.—"Bootlegging! Bribery! Public officials!"

Those words kept into the night again today when Mayor Peter J. Groh, of Dover, Ohio, was thrown into the county jail at New Philadelphia, charged with accepting bribes from liquor runners, who sought to transport their illicit product through northern Ohio city, according to Rupert R. Beetham, state prohibition commissioner here.

"Crooked officials are the biggest handicap to prohibition law enforcement. I would rather catch one crooked public official than 100 bootleggers," Beetham declared.

Mayor Groh was arrested when Ed Little, "ace" of the state dry-enforcement squad, succeeded in "buying protection" from the mayor for a "mythical" carload of liquor that was to have been run through Dover, according to Beetham. Groh accepted $50 from Little.

COOPER MAY VISIT FRANCE

Governor May Attends Dedication of Ohio Monuments
On Battle Fields.

COLUMBUS, O., March 22.—Gov. Myers V. Cooper may go to Europe at the expense of the state next fall.

This was the prospect today following the action of the house of representatives in passing a bill introduced by L. J. Abel, Cleveland, which would allow the governor, adjutant general, and a commission of ten $25,000 to defray expenses to France so as to take part in the dedication of Ohio battle monuments in that country on Sept. 26.

It was specified in the bill that the commission will consist of ten ex-service men of the Ohio legislature, to be appointed by Ohio's chief executive.

The measure now goes to the senate, and according to present indications, it will meet with the approval of the senators of the upper house.

After passage by the senate, the proposed statute will go to the governor for his signature, and there is little likelihood of Gov. Cooper using the veto pen.

An appropriation of $150,000 was made by the general assembly two years ago for the erection of these monuments to Ohio's world war dead.

On the date specified it is hoped that 1,000 members of the 37th division will be in attendance.

The measure was placed on the calendar yesterday as a memorial tribute to Marshal Ferdinand Foch, French war general, who headed the destinies of the allied armies during the World war.

The monuments which are already under construction, are a bridge at Eynes, Belgium; a hospital at Montfaucon, France; a park at Hattin, France; and a park at Hattin, France.

MINE BLAST DEATH TOLL CLIMBS TO 27

KINLOCH MINE, NEAR PAR-
NASSUS, Pa., March 22.—The death toll of the mine gas explosion here mounted today to 27, of whom 21 have been identified.

Bodies of the unidentified victims have not been removed to the surface. Rescue teams returning from below reported discovery of the others.

No one, not even company officials themselves, know positively how many men are still in the mine. Deputy Coroner Charles F. Brush, of Westmoreland-co., in charge at the temporary morgue, hazarded a guess that there may be 25 but there were others who thought the number should not be that large.

Hoover Facing Great Task in Naming Commission to Investigate Dry Laws

If he judiciously mixes 'em up, appointing both wets and dries, then he risks the possibility of a divided commission and a divided report which might leave him right where he started.

Reichel Confesses Slaying Of Alleged Blackmailer

Stanley Reichel, street car motorman, looking through bars in the county jail at Chicago, after he had confessed slaying Michael Rybska. Inset shows Frances Malanska, Reichel's sweetheart, who was threatened in a plot to extort money from her father. Reichel claims Rybska was the blackmailer and for that reason he slew him.

Hundreds of Dollars Paid For Single Gladioli Bulb Created by Dr. Bales

Circleville Physician Develops
Great Business Out of
Garden Hobby.

Some years ago, a man who paid $1000 for a single flower bulb, would have been put under observation as a prospective patient for the nearest mad house. But at the present time such a price is all in the day's work and expense at Dr. Blenn R. Bales' remarkable Triangle Flower Farms, where "You're Mighty Welcome" is the delightful and typical slogan of the owner. This commercial cultivation of flowers has grown rapidly from a hobby in his own back yard, to a business of monstrous size.

The Bales' flower farms is another reason for Circleville's name being printed on the new maps. It is a business that is becoming known all over the states and Canada. Orders amounting to more than 1,000,000 bulbs in one year have been shipped not only to almost every state in the Union, but to Canada, Australia, and Europe. Most of these bulbs were gladioli. This flower is Dr. Bales' specialty although he does grow tulips, tigridia, lilies, daffodils, iris, with a summer hyacinth filling an important place this year.

Everyone is familiar with the sight of the 35 acres of blooming flowers at the Triangle Farms south of Circleville and with the jovial disposition of the owner. Few, however, have any idea of the planning, work, time and money involved in the growing of these gorgeous blossoms. Each flower has a family history and a number famous now everywhere were originated by Dr. Bales.

NEW VARIETIES CREATED
Among the gladioli are Mary o' Mine, Rose Mary, and Blenn, the second for Rose Mary Jackson, and the last, for Dr. Bales' son. The Rose Mary bulb was sold for $750, and the others are bringing results just as satisfactory.

This year Dr. Bales will introduce three new gladioli—the Gint o' Gold, Barton and Nasturtium. Barton is the name of his small grandson.

The most interesting part of all of these new creations is the manner in which they are bred or pollinized. Dr. Bales' description of this sounds like a solution to a cross word puzzle. However, the more beautiful the flower the more intricate the pollination. When these treated flowers go to seed, the seeds are gathered and carefully planted the next year.

These produce tiny bubblets, the size varying from that of an ordinary pea, to a shelled hickory nut, according to the individual bulbs that are being used.

In another year these bubblets are planted and they produce bulbs, that in turn are planted the following year, and the result of the crossing of the flowers is learned with the unfolding of the first blossom. It may be something more beautiful than anticipated or it may be a keen disappointment.

When the blooming season is past, the bulbiferous plants are taken from the ground. Each variety is kept distinct by the numbers and name on the thousands of stakes that mark off the different beds. The paint on these stakes alone, each year is more than the amount used to paint an ordinary house with two coats.

The bulbs are placed on drying racks until free from dampness and are ready to be taken to the warehouse at the end of High-st for the winter. This warehouse contains 7,500 square feet of floor space, and is heated to 48 degrees all winter.

DISEASE PREVENTION
When hibernation is over each bulb is placed in a bichloride of mercury solution and left for three hours to kill disease. If a bulb has been imported, it must be grown for two years and examined twice by government inspectors before it can be sold.

The blooming flowers at the farm where thousands of tourists stop each year, are of course the satisfactory achievement after all this preparation. The supreme moment is when the stalks are cut with blossoms only partly open, gathered into bundles of 25, placed upright with stems in a bucket of fresh water, and set in to a banana hamper. Over all a sack and thick brown paper tied. The hamper is labeled, carried to the station on a Triangle truck, and the gladioli are on their way to the florists.

Fifty thousand bulbs were sold this week to one company. Other orders have been filled for nearby cities.

PONTIUS RITES ARE HELD HERE

Throng of Friends Reveal
Esteem Given To Former
Probate Judge.

The esteem and affection with which Judge George H. Pontius was regarded in Circleville was manifested in the crowds that thronged the Methodist church Thursday afternoon at the time of the funeral services. The array of beautiful flowers that filled the front of the church, were the expressions of sympathy that had arrived from friends and relatives in Circleville, New York City, Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Toledo and the state of New Mexico. Present at the funeral were friends and admirers of Mr. Pontius from Columbus, Cincinnati, Chicago, Mt. Sterling and Ashville.

Rev. Franklin McElfresh of the Methodist church preached a wonderful sermon, and included in the service were several hymns, including "Abide With Me," "My Jesus as Thou Wilt" and "Oh God Our Help in Ages Past." These were sung by a quartet consisting of Mrs. Ray Reid, Mrs. Edwin Bach, Mr. Ed. Ebert and Meeker Terwilliger.

In addition to the personal friends of the Pontius family several organizations in which Mr. Pontius had been an active member attended in groups. Among these were the Pickaway Bar association, the Bankers' association, the Knights of Pythias, and the Knight Templars.

As the funeral cortege was leaving the church, the chimes at the court house were played. The pallbearers were Fred P. Griner, Fred Nicholas, Clark Will, Mack Noggle, Noah Warner, Oscar Howard, Meeker Terwilliger and Wade Cook.

MINE BLAST DEATH TOLL CLIMBS TO 28

KINLOCH MINE, NEAR PAR-
NASSUS, Pa., March 22.—The known death toll of the mine gas explosion here mounted today to 28 of whom 21 have been identified.

Bodies of the unidentified victims have not been removed to the surface. Rescue teams returning from below reported discovery of the others.

No one, not even company officials themselves, know positively how many men are still in the mine. Deputy Coroner Charles F. Brush of Westmoreland-co., in charge at the temporary morgue, hazarded a guess that there may be 35, but there were others who thought the number should not be that large.

STATE AGENTS SEIZE MARKED 'BRIBE' MONEY

Campaign Against "Crooked"
Public Officials Is Resum-
ed At Dover.

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., March 22.—Mayor Peter J. Groh, of Dover, Ohio, near here, was thrown in the county jail here today and ordered held without bond allegedly in connection with an investigation of "liquor traffic" made by three state prohibition agents.

Names of the prohibition agents were not known, and efforts to reach them failed.

Little else could be definitely established except that Mayor Groh, who is serving his second term in public office, was thrown in jail and that he is held without bond.

IN DURANT CONTEST

Apparently well-founded reports say, however, that the dry agents using marked money, "bribed" the mayor to allow a transport of liquor to be run through his city.

Groh is 50 years of age. In the recent William Durant $25,000 contest for the best means to stop liquor violations, the mayor submitted three essays.

Dover is immediately adjacent to this city. It has a population of about 8,000.

BEETHAM AROUSED
COLUMBUS, O., March 22 — "Bootlegging! Bribery! Public officials!"

Those words left into the lime-light again today when Mayor Peter J. Groh, of Dover, Ohio, was thrown into the county jail at New Philadelphia, charged with accepting bribes from liquor runners, who sought to transport their illicit product through the northern Ohio city, according to Rupert R. Beetham, state prohibition commissioner here.

'Crooked officials are the biggest handicap to prohibition law enforcement. I would rather catch one crooked public official than 100 bootleggers,' Beetham declared.

Mayor Groh was arrested when Ed Little, "ace" of the state dry enforcement squad, succeeded in "buying protection" from the mayor for a "mythical" carload of liquor that was to have been run through Dover, according to Beetham, Groh accepted $50 from Little.

COOPER MAY VISIT FRANCE

Governor May Attend Dedication of Ohio Monuments
On Battle Fields.

COLUMBUS, O., March 22 — Gov. Myers Y. Cooper may go to Europe at the expense of the state next fall.

This was the prospect today following the action of the house of representatives in passing a bill introduced by L. J. Abel, Cleveland, which would allow the governor, adjutant general, and a commission of ten $25,000 to defray expenses to France so as to take part in the dedication of Ohio battle monuments in that country on Sept. 26.

It was specified in the bill that the commission will consist of ten ex-service men of the Ohio legislature, to be appointed by Ohio's chief executive.

The measure now goes to the senate, and according to present indications, it will meet with the approval of the solons of the upper house.

After passage by the senate, the proposed statute will go to the governor for his signature, and there is little likelihood of Gov. Cooper using the veto pen.

An appropriation of $150,000 was made by the general assembly two years ago for the erection of these monuments to Ohio's world war dead.

On the date specified it is hoped that 1,000 members of the 37th division will be in attendance.

The measure was placed on the calendar yesterday as a memorial tribute to Marshal Ferdinand Foch French war general, who headed the destinies of the allied armies during the World war.

The monuments which are already under construction, are a bridge at Eynes, Belgium; a hospital at Montfaucon, France, and a park at Hattovshatel, France.

SPINAGO DAILY DRIVING MISERY AND SUFFERING FROM CIRCLEVILLE HOMES

Hundreds Praise New Spinach Tonic Introduced At Mykrantz Pharmacy For Banishing Ailments of Many Years Standing.

GLORIOUS HEALTH AND HAPPINESS BROUGHT TO CIRCLEVILLE HOME BY NEW TONIC CONTAINING SPINAGO

Father and Son Both Thankful To Spinago For Driving Away Suffering Caused By Stomach and Digestive Ailments.

Mr. William Morris, who resides in Circleville at 118 E. Water St., was among the first residents of this city to reap the harvest of good health through the use of Spinago. It was due to his recommendation that his son started on the treatment. Mr. Morris is a very enthusiastic supporter of the new wonder tonic as is shown by the following statement made by him just after he had taken two bottles.

"For about ten years I had been suffering from constipation and stomach trouble. During this whole time I tried one medicine after another from drug stores and doctors—The misery was unbearable. I had no appetite whatever. My bodily resistance was weakened and I was in a terribly

Here is a case where two members of one family have found the way to health through the use of Spinago—where happiness has returned to an entire family after this wonderful new tonic entered the home.

SANFORD MORRIS.

Not long ago Mr. William Morris of 118 E. Water St., came in to the Mykrantz Pharmacy, 107 N. Court St., Spinago headquarters, to give praise to this new master medicine for the wonderful health it had brought to him. At that time Mr. Morris said that he had started his son on Spinago and was sure that he would experience the same results. Last week young Mr. Sanford Morris, 12 years old, who lives with his father at 118 E. Water St., came to the Mykrantz Pharmacy for his second bottle of this new Spinago tonic and was so pleased with what it had done for him that he made the following statement:

"It isn't only grown-ups who have stomach trouble. Beneve me, because I had it. My stomach hurt every time I ate anything. It just didn't seem to digest. I couldn't eat candy or soda, or even my regular meals without awful pains. My face was all broken out with pimples and daddy made me take medicine most of the time because I was constipated. I don't like to take medicine. I guess no boys do. And especially if it doesn't make you feel any better. Then one day daddy told me he was going to let me try some of the same medicine that he was taking and he brought home a bottle for me. So I quit taking all the other medicines I had been using and started Spinago. It doesn't taste like other medicine at all. It is sort of good and I like it. I'm so glad I took it because now I don't have those pains every time I eat; my face is not broken out and I don't have to take nasty tasting medicines all the time. Daddy says that I eat more than anyone else in the family and I guess he's right because I sure am hungry at meal times. I am taking my second bottle now and want to tell all the other boys and girls in Circleville how well it has made me feel."

HUNDREDS WANT TO KNOW "WHAT IS SPINAGO?"

Skeptical Sufferers Don't Believe New Tonic Containing Spinago Can Work Such Wonders.

Many sufferers who have heard of the wonders worked by Spinago in so many cases in Circleville are skeptical; they don't believe it is possible. They ask—"How can any tonic do it? What is Spinago?"

The answer is simple: Spinago can accomplish such feats because it is a tonic based upon a practical idea. An idea that has been tested through many years. That Spinago is one of the most valuable foods obtainable both to combat stomach and digestive ailments and to make rich pure blood. For many, many years doctors have recommended Spinago in diets for these ailments and it is a generally accepted fact that Spinago makes the blood pure, rich and red. And if the blood is pure, rich and red you must be healthy. But in order to derive the great benefits from Spinago it is necessary to eat large quantities of it due to the great content of moisture and other elements which are not of any special benefit to the body. But if fresh Spinago is dried until all this moisture is driven out we have left a fine powder containing only the elements which are of benefit. One pound of this powder, due to its concentrated form, contains as much of the elements valuable to the body as

KISSING BABY A VERY DANGEROUS PRACTISE

Dr. Copeland Warns Mothers to Guard Their Lovable Innocents Against Possible Infection Through This Method of Showing Affection.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health New York City.

"Do not kiss me. I don't want to get sick." Newark, New Jersey has a sensible health commissioner. He is my friend, Dr. Charles V. Craster, who is ever alert to maintain the health and well-being of his city and all its citizens.

Commissioner Craster has worried over the dangerous spread of colds, pneumonia and other diseases of the breathing organs of children. He is determined to do everything humanly possible to spare the innocents.

What do you suppose this progressive man proposes doing? He is going to send to every baby born in Newark a bib printed with the warning I quoted: "Don't kiss me. I do not want to get sick."

All the old fogies will laugh at this. Too many persons who should know better, will laugh at it. But everybody who realizes the infectious or contagious possibilities of colds and other diseases of the breathing apparatus, won't laugh. They will wonder why somebody didn't do such a thing long, long ago. Bravo, Dr. Craster! I doubt if anybody in the world loves babies more than I do. I am positively rude at times, stooping over a baby carriage to get a glimpse of a sweet, smiling baby. It is a sight for sore eyes!

Of course you want to kiss the baby. I wanted to kiss mine and I am afraid I did, too many times. But I know better now. There is not so much business nowadays for the old-time cowboys, with his pistols and aggressiveness. I can suggest a real place for the cowboy, however, a place more important than the one he filled so well a generation ago. Let's put him on guard to keep the babies from being kissed.

Do you know that a man with a hard cold or the influenza, who sneezes in a crowded street car and fails to cover his face—do you know that he is really more dangerous than a man with a loaded pistol? If a crazy man fired one shot into a street car he might inflict a painful wound, but his chance of killing somebody is not nearly so good as the sneezer's hit.

"Droplet infection," that is the infection from the infected secretions of a person with an infectious disease of nose, throat or lungs, is a real menace to the public health. Kissing a dear little baby by such a person should be made a State's prison offense.

If you must kiss the baby, kiss the top of the head, or the back of the neck. By the way, that's a fine place to plant a kiss. That sort of a kiss may tickle enough to make the baby laugh and it won't do any harm. But I beg of you, don't kiss the baby on the mouth.

If the baby could think and talk and knew the significance of it, I am sure it would say in no uncertain tones: "Don't kiss me. I don't want to be sick."

Topic
"MY MASTER AND BROTHER"
Memory Verse for Friday
"But I know him; because I am from him, and he sent me" (John 7:29). (Read: Matthew 6:25 to 34.)

MEDITATION: I will not confuse my mind just now with difficult questions. Here is the fact upon which I rest with great comfort, that Jesus knew God as none other has ever known him. All that I think I know of God from other sources is supplemented and corrected and illuminated by what Jesus tells me and shows me. He who lived as it were in the bosom of the Father may be trusted; He knew. And His own deep and luminous experience He puts at my disposal. I too, through Him, may know the fatherly love that knocks at the door of my heart, that presides, unseen, over my life.
PRAYER: O God, who hast given me a sure and faithful guide through the wilderness of this world, give to me an obedient spirit that without doubt I may accept His words and without faltering I may follow where He leads. In His name. Amen.

fifteen pounds of fresh, green spinach. In other words, this powder is concentrated Spinach.

This, then, is the reason why Spinago can work such wonders. It's main ingredient is concentrated dry, powdered Spinach contained in each bottle, in sufficient quantity to produce the beneficial results of a great quantity of fresh Spinach. To this important basic ingredient, the following well known roots, herbs and barks are added: Sarsaparilla, Mandrake, Dandelion, Prickly Ash, Poke Root, Gentian, Cascara, Licorice, Burdock and Wild Cherry scientifically compounded with other valuable ingredients of recognized medical value under a process and in proportion known only to the manufacturer.

Based upon such a formula, it is not surprising that Spinago has performed feats which seem almost like miracles.

Stubborn and Chronic Ailments Give Way Before Spinago

New Tonic Containing Spinach Obtainable At Mykrantz Pharmacy In Circleville.

A new tonic, based upon a practical and time tried formula is now obtainable at the Mykrantz pharmacy, 107 N. Court St., Circleville, where many former sufferers daily call to praise it. Relief has been given to many and many residents of Circleville by this new tonic containing spinach. They have found that Spinago is a preparation before which ailments of many years' standing must fall. Stomach trouble, constipation, dyspepsia, lack of energy, anemia, loss of weight, loss of appetite, rheumatism and neuritis, all these have been cured and relieved by Spinago and every day adds to the long list of those who have benefited by using this new tonic.

Spinago is sold on an absolutely guaranteed basis and it costs you nothing to try it. The price is one dollar for one bottle or five dollars for six. And if one, two, or six bottles do not produce the desired results the money is cheerfully refunded. Why not try Spinago on this plan? You can't

Dr. Copeland Warns Mothers to Guard Their Lovable Innocents Against Possible Infection Through This Method of Showing Affection.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

"Do not kiss me. I don't want to get sick." Newark, New Jersey has a sensible health commissioner. He is my friend, Dr. Charles V. Craster, who is ever alert to maintain the health and well-being of his city and all its citizens.

Commissioner Craster has worried over the dangerous spread of colds, pneumonia and other diseases of the breathing organs of children. He is determined to do everything humanly possible to spare the innocents.

What do you suppose this progressive man purposes doing? He is going to send to every baby born in Newark a bib printed with the warning I quoted: "Don't kiss me. I don't want to get sick."

All the old fogies will laugh at this. Too many persons who should know better, will laugh at it. But everybody who realizes the infectious or contagious possibilities of colds and other diseases of the breathing apparatus, won't laugh. They will wonder why somebody didn't do such a thing long ago. Bravo, Dr. Craster! I doubt if anybody in the world loves babies more than I do. I am positively rude at times, stooping over a baby carriage to get a glimpse of a sweet, smiling baby. It is a sight for sore eyes!

Of course you want to kiss the baby. I wanted to kiss mine and I am afraid I did, too many times. But I know better now.

There is not so much business nowadays for the old-time cowboy, with his pistols and aggressiveness. I can suggest a real place for the cowboy, however, a place more important than the one he filled so well a generation ago. Let's put him on guard to keep the babies from being kissed.

Do you know that a man with a hard cold or the influenza, who sneezes in a crowded street car and fails to cover his face—do you know that he is really more dangerous than a man with a loaded pistol? If a crazy man fired one shot into a street car he might inflict a painful wound, but his chance of killing somebody is not nearly so good as the sneezer has.

"Droplet infection," that is the infection from the infected secretions of a person with an infectious disease of nose, throat or lungs, is a real menace to the public health. Kissing a dear little baby by such a person should be made a State's prison offense.

If you must kiss the baby, kiss the top of the head, or the back of the neck. By the way, that's a fine place to plant a kiss. That sort of a kiss may tickle enough to make the baby laugh and it won't do any harm. But, I beg of you, don't kiss the baby on the mouth.

If the baby could think and talk and knew the significance of it, I am sure it would say in no uncertain tones: "Don't kiss me. I don't want to be sick."

Astronomical Term
A "light year" is the term employed in astronomy to indicate the distance a ray of light traveling 186,000 miles a second can traverse in a year. Thus one can easily compute the distance of the present outermost visible limits of space which are estimated to lie 100,000,000 light years away from the earth.—Exchange.

"MY MASTER AND BROTHER"

Memory Verse for Friday

"But I know him; because I am from him, and he sent me" (John 7:29). (Read: Matthew 6:25 to 34.)

MEDITATION: I will not confuse my mind just now with difficult questions. Here is the fact upon which I rest with great comfort, that Jesus knew God as none other has ever known him. All that I think I know of God from other sources is supplemented and corrected and illuminated by what Jesus tells me and shows me. He who lived as it were in the bosom of the Father may be trusted; He knew. And His own deep and luminous experience He puts at my disposal. I too, through Him, may know the fatherly love that knocks at the door of my heart, that presides, unseen, over my life.

PRAYER: O God, who hast given me a sure and faithful guide through the wilderness of this world, give to me an obedient spirit that without doubt I may accept His words and without faltering I may follow where He leads. In His name. Amen.

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use, in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

gravy, buttered peas, perfection salad, rolls, butter, apple pie a-la-mode, coffee, mints and nuts.

The program was as follows: Music, high school orchestra. Athletics were spelled out in the following speeches, "Alibity," Isabelle Strawser; "Team Work," George Thomas; "Health," Carrie Shepard; "Luck," Simon Buckwalter; "Energy," Hazel Smith; "Thinking," Robert Brown; "Interest," Dorothy Gearhart; "Cooperation of Community," A. Dane Ellis; "School Spirit," Ruth Stewart; vocal solo, Ruth McCollister. Address, H. R. Townsend, commissioner of athletics. Presentation of leaders, John P. Ray; music, High School orchestra; Prof. M. A. Shepard, presiding. The auditorium was beautifully decorated with the school and class colors, potted plants and ferns.

Drs. S. C. and R. E. Lightner have added a new room to their office and have installed a new X-Ray and Florescope machine to their equipment.

Mrs. Carl Hohenstein and son, Carl Jr., and Miss Daisy Pontius were visitors to Chillicothe on Wednesday. Mrs. Carrie Holderman and Mr. Robert Brundige were other visitors to the city on that day.

Mrs. Manna Gearhart of Springbank and Mrs. Paul Johnson, of Circleville attended the Mary Martha meeting held at Mrs. James Tootle's near Hinman on Wednesday.

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless. Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

AMERICA'S PUZZLERS
The annual convention of the National Puzzler's League, first held in New York City, suggests that the puzzle business is an important feature in American life. Some years ago when cross word puzzles became popular, it was commonly thought that they would prove only a passing fad. But people have kept on being interested in these puzzles, and many depend on them for recreation in their quiet homes.
The people who supply puzzles to the literary and retail trade market find that there is something in human nature creating a constant demand for their ingenious product. It gives one a certain feeling of triumph to study into some mysterious puzzle of words or letters or mechanical arrangement, which seems so bewildering at first, but which can be solved by people who have fertile minds.

In ancient times some forms of puzzles, such as anagrams and acrostics, were regarded as having deep religious and philosophical significance. Twelve of the psalms of the Old Testament scriptures were written in Hebrew on the acrostic plan, in which some letter or word in each line forms a part of a word or phrase running up or down the whole composition.
Some people will say that there are puzzles enough in our perplexing daily life, and they do not care to puzzle their heads over anything else. But possibly if people would train their ingenuity a little more over the cross words and anagrams and rebuses, they might obtain more original ideas for meeting the puzzles of daily life.

Some also would say that an inveterate puzzler would better take that talent of his, and use it to more substantial advantage for the benefit of his own situation in life. A good puzzle might be regarded as a form of mental exercise comparable to physical gymnastics. We are supposed to train our bodies in gymnastics, why not our minds on puzzles?

231 MILES AN HOUR
Two or three days after Major Segrave set a new auto speed record by traveling 231 miles an hour on the sands at Daytona Beach. Joe Bible demonstrated the risk of that sort of "sport" by killing himself and a photographer when the car in which he tried to break Segrave's record went out of control.

It is hard not to believe that this sort of thing ought to be discontinued forever. Pleasure and commercial cars already can go as fast as anyone in his senses wishes. Surely the automotive engineers do not need these speed tests in their researches. They serve no good purpose, as far as the layman can see, and they certainly cause frequent tragedy.

The powers in the automobile world would do well to read a hint from the following:

START BROOD SOW IN RIGHT SHAPE

Will Produce Larger Litters Than Thin Animal.

Proper attention to feeding and care of the brood sows before and during the breeding season has a big influence on the number of pigs one will be able to save, according to W. E. Carroll of the University of Illinois. A sow in thin condition and gaining rapidly a short time before she is bred will produce larger litters than a sow in thin condition.

Because of this it is desirable to feed sows a full feed of a well-balanced ration for a week or ten days before they are bred. This stimulates the maturity of the eggs in the ovaries which are to produce the litters of pigs. If the brood sow is delayed until pasture is gone, it will be well to include in the ration some good quality alfalfa hay, either in alfalfa meal or fed whole in a rack.

Protein supplements also are necessary. If skim milk or buttermilk is available a gallon of either of these daily for each sow, together with a ration of corn or barley or a mixture of corn and oats or corn, oats and barley, will give excellent results. If skim milk is not to be had, a mixture of two parts tankage, one part linseed meal and one part alfalfa will make a fine substitute. The sows probably will eat about one-half to three-fourths of a pound of this supplement in addition to a full feed of corn. Water, of course, should be available at all times.

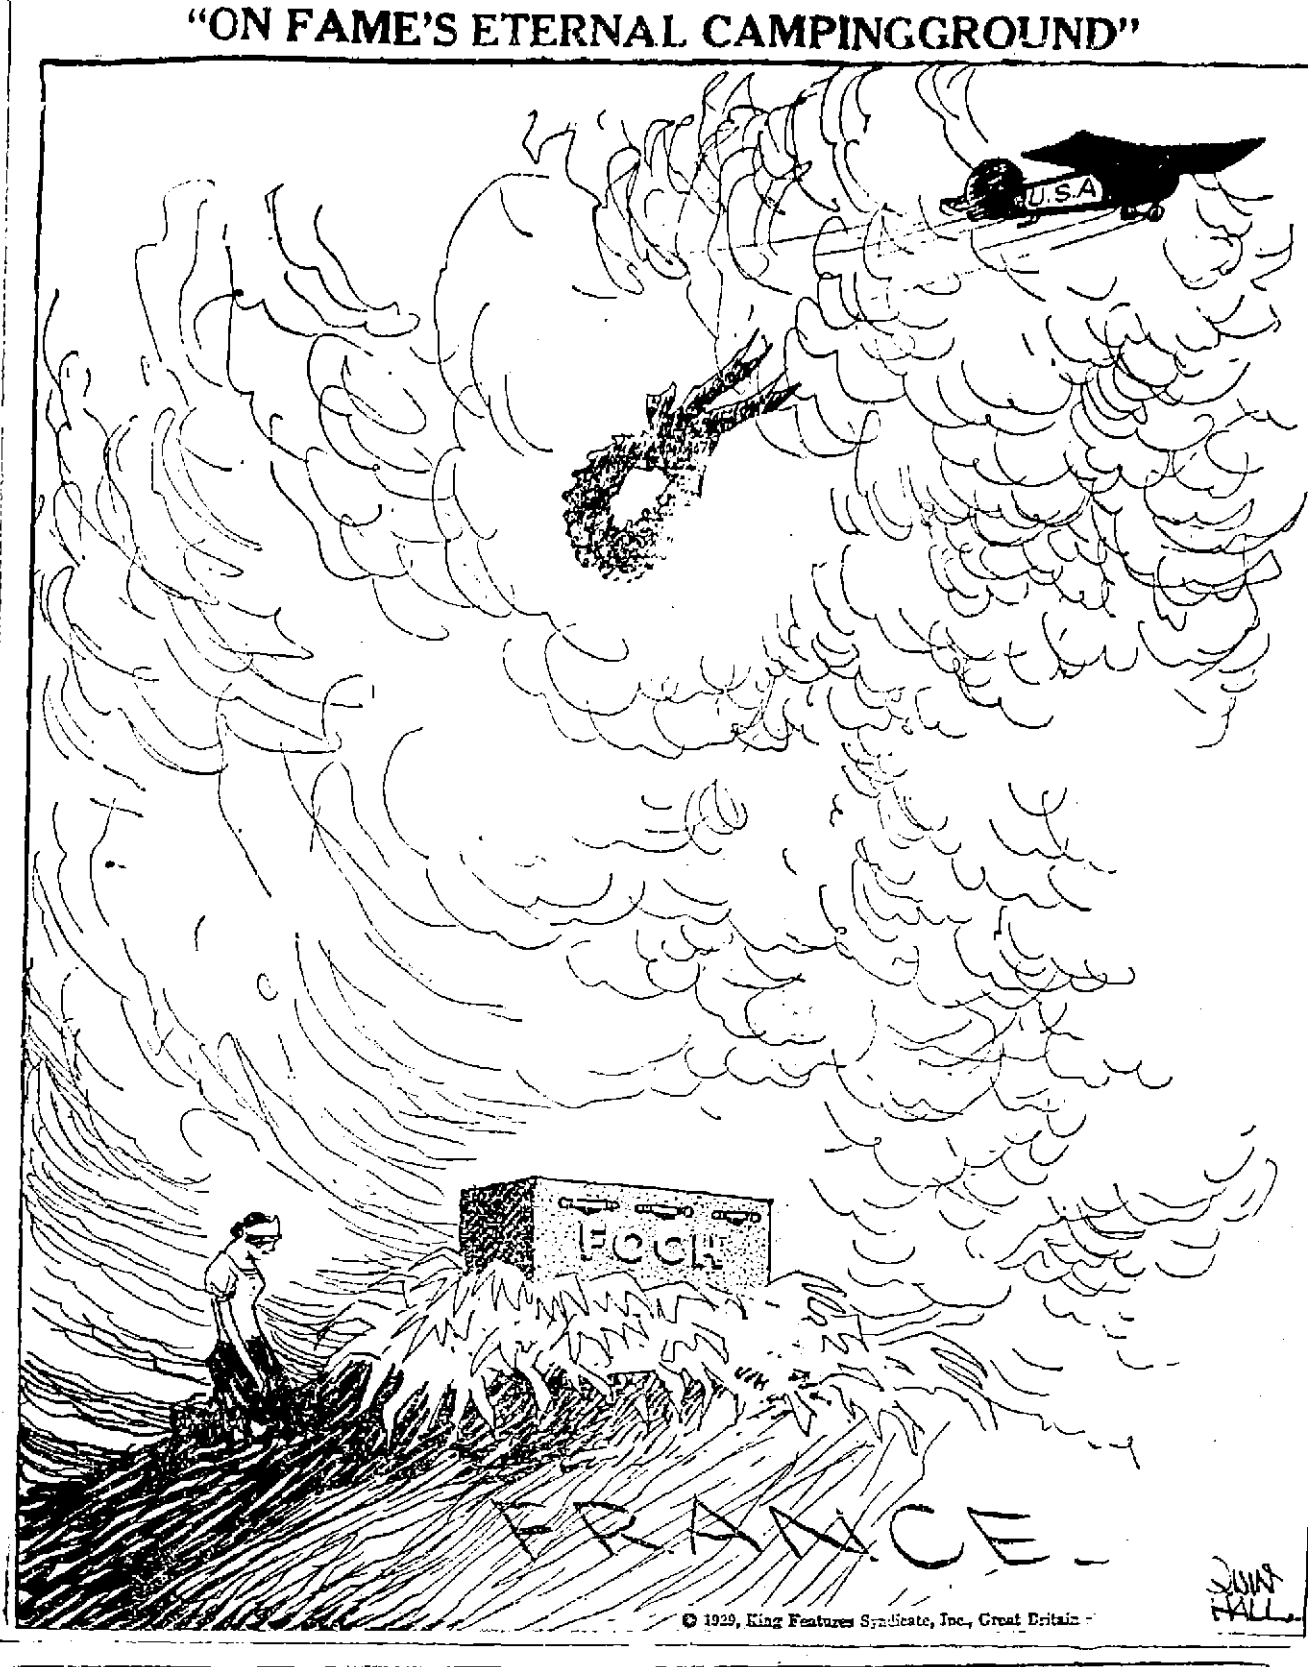

Where soy beans are available it is possible also to supplement the ration with these. The sows probably will eat about a pound of the beans daily a head. In case the soy beans are fed, a mineral mixture should be allowed. This can be made of two parts ground limestone, two parts steamed bone meal and one part salt. After the sows are bred the ration can be reduced in order to avoid getting them over-fat for farrowing.

Tankage Is Excellent Protein Supplement
Tankage is an excellent protein supplement to use with corn for hogs. At the present prices of foods, a mixture composed of tankage, two parts, linseed oil cake, one part, and alfalfa meal, one part, is a very good feed. One part is cheaper and will produce just as rapid gains as tankage. Shorts is worth approximately the same pound for pound, as corn for fattening hogs and slightly more than corn for pigs at weaning time. The shorts may be fed dry or mixed with milk. Oats is worth about one-half as much as tankage as corn. Not over one-third of the grain ration should consist of oats. A protein supplement should be fed with oats, shorts and corn. Pigs that receive corn plus skim milk or tankage in the proper amounts do not need additional mineral when running on alfalfa pasture.—A. D. Weber, University of Nebraska.

Silage Is Excellent for All Live Stock
Silage can be fed to sheep, in fact it is quite the universal practice for those who own silos and sheep to feed them silage. The fact of the matter is silage has a much wider use as a feed for all classes of live stock than is commonly accorded it.

In the feeding of silage to sheep or hogs there is one point that must be given close attention. These two classes of animals should not be fed silage that in any manner is not first-class silage. Sheep and hogs need very unimpairedly toward spoiled silage, instead of this one point, however, there can be fed to sheep.

LIVE STOCK ITEMS
Young animals are more susceptible to trouble from parasites and diseases.
Good feed and plenty of exercise are the best ways to keep live stock in good condition.
The best way to keep live stock in good condition is to give them good feed and plenty of exercise.

Impatient Griselda

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.
WHEN Irene Robeline married Guinn Holden, young Texas minister, she expected to find happiness in his love. Instead she found that she was his housewife only, that his heart belonged to his first wife, the beautiful Lilith, who died as a child. Against the "gold and white" ghost of the dead Lilith and the living grown-up child, Lilith, Irene combated for 20 years of her married life. Tina, Lundy, Ross and "Pat," her own children, were secondary in their father's affections. Lilith was first always. Tina wore Lilith's old clothes and used her worn books in college. When Lilith graduated she became engaged to Roger Devoreux, a young, wealthy Texan. Later, postponing her marriage, she induced her father to let her have a year in New York on $2,000 left him by a parishioner. Studying voice, she met Vivien Winthrop, heiress. At her home Lilith meets young society folk, one of them Bill Chester, scion of millions, who takes her out to elaborate parties. Bill's fiancée is in Paris. It is a glorious time for Lilith, far from the boredom and drudgery of the Texas parsonage. It is the life she has dreamed about. When her father allows Lilith to spend the summer alone in New York, Irene objects and leaves home for a vacation. In New York Lilith's blonde beauty is impressing Bill Chester. Madly in love with Lilith he tries to be true to Sally Burton, his fiancée. But, finally, in desperation, he asks Lilith would she marry him if they were free. Lilith answers yes. He kisses her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.
CHAPTER XLV.
THAT night as Lilith cuddled down in her bed, rejoicing over her success, the little clock clucked. "It isn't right, my daughter, to steal another girl's sweetheart."

But she stretched out her lovely limbs, proud of her beauty and the power of her beauty! "Oh, mother, you are so simple-minded! My wisdom is better than yours, for see what it is bringing me—all the possessions that I long for, and love, besides."

Her stepmother's ethics might be all right for a Texas parsonage, but for New York something different was needed—clear eyes to see a skillful hand to steer, a purpose not weakened by selfishness. To be sure of what you wanted, and then quietly to appropriate it, that was the wisdom of the world. Not to snatch ("A snatching cat is never fat"), but to reach out a graceful hand and take it as a natural right. Wasn't beauty born to dominate the world?

Her fancy flamed for her scenes of splendor, at the Court of St. James, in Paris, at Nice, at the Lido, where she saw herself dressed as she would unerringly know how to dress, moving as the center of admiration. Bill would be proud of her. Oh, how good to have done forever with all striving and economy and shabbiness! To have what she wanted without winking anyone else—except, of course, a mythical Sally Burton in Paris, who was rich and good and soon find her another suit.

MYSTERY AND LOVE
Speed, mystery and love are involved in "Finders Keepers," the feature picture which stars Laura La Plante at the Grand theater tonight. The picture is taken from the Saturday Evening Post story by Mary Roberts Rinehart. It answers such questions as who was engaged to the colonel's daughter, who was the man with the long beard and who discovered Laura's secret. The sixth chapter of "The Mystery Rider," also will be shown.

GREAT WILD WEST SHOW
The greatest wild west show ever staged in Circleville is scheduled for the Cliftona theater, on Saturday, when "Cheyenne," Ken Maynard's latest starring western vehicle for First National Pictures arrives.

The powers in the automobile world would do well to call a halt.

OUR RADIO SETS

Of the 20,000,000 radio sets now in use in the world, the United States has half. It is doubtful if ever in world history has an invention spread into general use quite so quickly as radio has. Back a few years ago the possibility of radio in every home looked like a wild dream, and today it has become a commonplace of existence.

The fact that we have half the radio sets in the world gives our country a wonderful advantage. A country where half the families have radio sets is going to be brighter, better educated, and more in touch with modern life.

It is up to our people here in Ohio to make the very best use of this invention. It should not be regarded as merely a toy, but it should be considered also as a tool for self improvement. People should make full use of the educational features, and not ask simply for frothy stuff.

START BROOD SOW IN RIGHT SHAPE

Will Produce Larger Litters Than Thin Animal.

Proper attention to feeding and care of the brood sows before and during the breeding season has a big influence on the number of pigs one will be able to save, according to W. E. Carroll of the University of Illinois. A sow in thrifty condition and gaining rapidly a short time before she is bred will produce larger litters than a sow in thin condition.

Because of this it is desirable to feed sows a full feed of a well-balanced ration for a week or ten days before they are bred. This stimulates the maturity of the eggs in the ovaries which are to produce the litters of pigs. If the breeding is delayed until pasture is gone, it will be well to include in the ration some good quality alfalfa hay, either as alfalfa meal or fed whole in a rack.

Protein supplements also are necessary. If skim milk or buttermilk is available a gallon of either of these daily for each sow, together with a ration of corn or barley or a mixture of corn and oats or corn, oats and barley, will give excellent results. If skim milk is not to be had, a mixture of two parts tankage, one part linseed meal and one part alfalfa will make a fine substitute. The sows probably will eat about one-half to three-fourths of a pound of this supplement in addition to a full feed of corn. Water, of course, should be available at all times.

Where soy beans are available it is possible also to supplement the ration with these. The sows probably will eat about a pound of the beans daily a head. In case the soy beans are fed, a mineral mixture should be allowed. This can be made of two parts ground limestone, two parts steamed bone meal and one part salt. After the sows are bred the ration can be reduced in order to avoid getting them over-fat for farrowing.

Tankage Is Excellent

Protein Supplement

Tankage is an excellent protein supplement to use with corn for hogs. At the present prices of feeds, a mixture composed of tankage two parts, linseed or cottonseed meal one part, and alfalfa meal one part is cheaper and will produce just as rapid gains as tankage. Shorts is worth approximately the same, pound for pound, as corn for fattening hogs and slightly more than corn for pigs at weaning time. The shorts may be fed dry or mixed with milk. Oats is worth about one-half as much per bushel as corn. Not over one-third of the grain ration should consist of oats. A protein supplement should be fed with oats, shorts, and corn. Pigs that receive corn plus skim milk or tankage in the proper amounts do not need additional mineral when running on alfalfa pasture.—A. D. Weber, University of Nebraska.

Silage Is Excellent

for All Live Stock

Silage can be fed to sheep, in fact, it is quite the universal practice for those who own silos and sheep to feed them silage. The fact of the matter is silage has a much wider use as a feed for all classes of live stock than is commonly accorded it.

In the feeding of silage to sheep or horses there is one point that must be given close attention. These two classes of animals should not be fed silage that in any manner is not first-class silage. Sheep and horses react very unfavorably toward spoiled silage. Outside of this one point, however, silage can be fed to sheep.

LIVE STOCK ITEMS

Young animals are more susceptible to trouble from parasites than older ones.

Good feed and plenty of exercise in winter will aid the ewes to produce good lambs in spring.

There can be no definite rule as to just how much grain is required to keep the ewes in proper condition for the spring lambing.

Feed supplied to the sow plays an important role in the success of the spring pig crop. It is not too early to think of this matter because proper nutrition is just as essential at the time of mating as in any subsequent period.

Make sure plenty of clean, fresh water is always available. Drinking cold water is claimed by some men to be dangerous for the sow. The greater danger comes from drinking water that is contaminated with disease germs, dirt and filth.

It is a good plan to sort live stock according to size and age and handle the groups of different ages separately during the winter. Young growing animals should not be run with the older stock, for the feed requirements are not the same.

Calves which are being fattened during the winter must be well fed to be ready for market next spring or early summer. They will require a full ration of corn together with sufficient protein and mineral matter to provide for growth and good gains.

Impatient Griselda

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

WHEN Irene Robeline married Guinn Holden, young Texas minister, she expected to find happiness in his love. Instead she found that she was his housewife only, that his heart belonged to his first wife, the beautiful Lilith, who died at childbirth. Against the "gold and white" ghost of the dead Lilith and the living grown-up child, Lilith, Irene combated for 20 years of her married life. Tina, Lundy, Ross and "Pat," her own children, were secondary to their father's affections. Lilith was first always. Tina wore Lilith's old clothes and used her worn books in college. When Lilith graduated she became engaged to Roger Devereaux, a young, wealthy Texan. Later, postponing her marriage, she induced her father to let her have a year in New York on $2,000 left him by a parishioner. Studying voice, she met Vivien Winthrop. At her home Lilith meets young society folk, one of them, Bill Chester, scion of millions, who takes her out to elaborate parties. Bill's fiancée is in Paris. It is a glorious time for Lilith, far from the boredom and drudgery of the Texas parsonage. It is the life she has dreamed about. When her father allows Lilith to spend the summer alone in New York, Irene objects and leaves home for a vacation. In New York Lilith's blonde beauty is impressing Bill Chester. Madly in love with Lilith he tries to be true to Sally Burton, his fiancée. But, finally, in desperation, he asks Lilith would she marry him if they were free. Lilith answers yes. He kisses her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLV.

THAT night as Lilith cuddled down in her bed, rejoicing over her success, the little clock clicked. "It isn't right, my daughter, to steal another girl's sweetheart."

But she stretched out her lovely limbs, proud of her beauty and the power of her beauty! "Oh, mother, you are so simple-minded! My wisdom is better than yours, for see what it is bringing me—all the possessions that I long for, and love, besides."

Her stepmother's ethics might be all right for a Texas parsonage, but for New York something different was needed—clear eyes to see, a skillful hand to steer, a purpose not weakened by selfishness. To be sure of what you wanted, and then quietly to appropriate it, that was the wisdom of the world. Not to snatch ("A snatching cat is never fat"), but to reach out a graceful hand and take it as a natural right. Wasn't beauty born to dominate the world?

Her fancy filmed for her scenes of splendor, at the Court of St. James, in Paris, at Nice, at the Lido, where she saw herself dressed as she would unerringly know how to dress, moving as the center of admiration. Bill would be proud of her. . . . Oh, how good to have done forever with all striving and economy and shabbiness! To have what she wanted without wronging anyone else—except, of course, a mythical Sally Burton in Paris, who was rich and could soon find herself another suitor.

Poor Roger would grieve when she told him, but surely he must realize she was never her equal, never could give her what her nature craved. After a long time he would marry someone else, or maybe he would stay always a bachelor for love of her, as Dr. Lundy did for Mother. She could bear gossip whisper! "The governor never married, because he can't get over his love for Lilith Holden—Lilith that married Bill Chester, the New York multimillionaire."

She wouldn't ever tell her father and mother about Sally Burton, because they held such quaint, old-fashioned notions. That was a pity, though, for it would be interesting to have everybody else comprehend the extent of her triumph in marrying Bill. . . . And of course a Sally Burton in Paris could easily win another man. . . .

MYSTERY AND LOVE

Speed, mystery and love are involved in "Finders Keepers," the feature picture which stars Laura La Plante at the Grand theater tonight. The picture is taken from the Saturday Evening Post story by Mary Roberts Rinehart. It answers such questions as who was engaged to the colonel's daughter, who was the man with the long beard and who discovered Laura's secret. The sixth chapter of "The Mystery Rider," also will be shown.

GREAT WILD WEST SHOW

The greatest wild west show ever staged in Circleville is scheduled for the Cliftona theater, on Saturday, when "Cheyenne," Ken Maynard's latest starring western vehicle for First National Pictures arrives.

"Cheyenne" is a real honest-to-goodness rodeo, with all the bucking bronchos, trick riding, stage coach races and other events that go to make these shows the most popular of all outdoor attractions.

"Cheyenne" was photographed at the Thirty-second Annual Frontier Days Rodeo in Cheyenne, Wyoming, with Ken a participant in the most thrilling events.

Unclaimed Letters

"You'll light up our big houses like a rosy flame," he boasted. "Mother will love you, will adore showing you off. And Old Baldy will like having such a sweet granddaughter, when once he gets over the shock of Sally's tilting me." He chuckled, then sobered. "He was rather keen on the match with Sally, chiefly because of the family partnership—but I've always gotten what I wanted. I reckon I'm spoiled."

"Yes, you're sinfully spoiled," she answered him, with eyes mischievous and tender. "I shall have quite a task to reform you."

He grinned like a naughty small boy that is well aware of his impudent charm.

"You thought you wanted Sally?" Lilith teased him.

"Yep, till the minute I saw you." His arm slipped around her possessively.

"Now you're quite sure you want me?" Her eyes narrowed in allurements, their long lashes fringing her cheeks.

"Quite positive," he exulted, as his clasp tightened.

They checked the days off on a tiny red calendar Bill carried in his pocket. Each evening at dinner, wherever they might be—and Bill took a boyish delight in finding a new place to show her each time—at the beach or at some road house, or roof garden, or hotel, they would make a little ceremony of marking off another day that brought Bill's freedom nearer.

"I'll keep this calendar as one of my chief treasures to be guarded in my strongboxes," Bill laughed one evening. "To be entailed in my will—to our eldest son!"

He laughed to see her vivid blushes, which in fact surprised her. She had always been cool before, but now her blood flamed rosy, as if suddenly warmed and lighted by fairy fuel that love had flung on her heart.

She hadn't visioned children as part of her dream world—but who could tell? Maybe some day she would give Bill a son. Her fancy flashed before her a wee face with Bill's features duplicated, held against her heart.

"I love you, Bill!" she half whispered, tensely.

"Oh, my little love!" he faltered unsteadily, his cheek close against her cheek, his hands caressing her perfumed golden hair.

To have a child? . . . Well, maybe so, if your husband had oodles of money for nurses and governesses and everything else, it might be all right. But not if you were poor, like Mother, and crowded in a shabby house that wasn't even yours. . . . She thought of the future, remembered her father's words spoken that night in his shabby study. "And one day soon they'll be putting your first baby in my arms!" Dear Father, he would love her child, as passionately as he loved her! She hadn't been very good to her father, but one day she would make it up to him.

"There was a Joshua to make the sun stand still," Bill was saying. "I wish I knew some guy that could make it whirl faster to bring me that letter from Paris."

"Time speeds away so fast," she quoted.

"It will, after that letter comes." His eyes adored her. . . .

Highest Honor Paid To Modern Military Chief Planned For Marshal.

PARIS, March 22.—The body of Marshal Ferdinand Foch, France's beloved warrior, reposed in state in the grand salon of his home today, while an honors guard of honor stood watch and thousands filed past his bier in silent homage.

The simple soldier who, living, shirked glory as much as he could, is to be honored in death as no other military chief of modern times has been honored.

For two days before he is accorded a national funeral on Tuesday, the marshal's body will lie under the arch of triumph he sides the tomb of the unknown soldier.

His last resting place will be in the chapel of Les Invalides beside the remains of Napoleon Bonaparte.

Sunday morning, the marshal's body will be laid upon a gun carriage and taken from his home to beneath the arch of triumph under cavalry escort.

NOW ABLE TO WALK WITHOUT PAIN: PRAISES HOYT'S

Retired Mail Carrier Grateful To Famous Prescription For New Health.

Mr. J. B. Shirley, who resides at 76 N. Brennell St., Chillicothe, Ohio, is still another well known resident of this vicinity who is publicly endorsing Hoyt's Compound which is the famous prescription now being introduced to crowds every day at Wilder's Drug Store, Circleville, O.

MR. J. B. SHIRLEY.

Mr. Shirley is well known to everyone throughout this entire section having been a mail carrier in Chillicothe for over 12 years and finally gave up this work because of rheumatism which had bothered him for eight years before he had gotten to be a great victim of the bowels trouble which made it necessary for him to be continually taking different kinds of laxatives and strong physics in order to obtain the slightest relief from his troubles. He was also troubled with his kidneys which broke his rest several times each night and he stated above the rheumatism settled in his joints, forcing him to use a cane. He had tried numerous kinds of medicines but was unable to find anything to give him the relief he desired. How Hoyt's quickly ended this well known man's suffering and made it possible for him to walk and get around without the use of his cane is told in Mr. Shirley's complete statement which follows:

"Have been a resident here in Chillicothe for several years," said Mr. Shirley. "All of my friends and acquaintances throughout this territory know that during the past 20 years I have suffered intense pain and misery from rheumatism. I carried mail for over 12 years and finally had to give up this work as the rheumatism grew steadily worse. This trouble caused me no end of expense and worry. I was continually taking STRONG PHYSICS but these only seemed to bring relief for the time being and would soon wear off leaving me in a worse condition than before. Kidneys were weak and deranged and broke my rest several times each night causing me to feel tired and worn out and draggy the following day, just as though I had never been to bed. When I kept seeing letters of praise which were received every day here in Chillicothe from people who had taken this great medicine and had gotten relief from it after everything else had failed I knew at once that it must have merit. I can now truthfully say that I am able to get around without the use of my cane and feel better than I have felt during the past 20 years after taking the Hoyt's Compound. My kidneys are strengthened, bowels are regulated and my appetite is very much improved through the use of this famous prescription and I am glad to be able to endorse it to other sufferers."

Hoyt's Compound is now being introduced and explained every day at Wilder's Drug Store, Circleville, Ohio. —Adv.

Monday night, the marshal's body again will be laid upon a gun carriage and taken to the cathedral Notre Dame under cavalry escort.

At 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, a high mass of requiem will be sung in the cathedral. The marshal was a devout Catholic.

After the religious ceremonies his coffin will be borne to Les Invalides amid solemn and magnificent splendor. President Doumergue will follow the gun carriage bearing the coffin on foot.

Three marshals of France, Foch, Franchet, Desperet and Lyautey together with General Pershing, of the United States, General Weygand, the marshal's most intimate friend, Field Marshal Lord Plummer and Field Marshal Sir George Milne of Britain will act as pallbearers according to present plans. Marshal Joffre is now too weak to act in that capacity.

OHIO MAYOR HELD

He, besides making a monthly arrangement. Groh has been making such arrangements with various liquor runners for two years, the state prohibition director charged.

STORY IS RELATED

The seriousness of the charge is reflected in the fact that the mayor was ordered held without bond.

The complete story of Groh's arrest as told by Beetham to a International News Service reporter is:

"A man came to my office two weeks ago, asking why I did not 'clean up' Dover. This man said he knew that the mayor was accepting protection money."

"I assigned Ed Little to investigate. Little is a former federal man, and was the agent that led the drive in the 'clean up' of Steubenville and Lancaster."

ARRANGES BRIDES

"Little went to Dover last week, and set himself up as a dealer in vacuum sweepers." Here Beetham smiled. "Soon, through various connections, Little became acquainted with the mayor, and succeeding in arranging 'protection' at the cost of $50. Monthly dividends were to be given to the mayor. Little used marked money, and this money was found on Groh."

"When Little informed me, I ordered him to throw Groh in jail and try to see that he was held without bond. John Cole, Steubenville dry officer, assisted Little."

Beetham said that the finding of 500 gallons of whiskey in a broken-down truck in Harrison, Ohio, which had been towed by a car bearing a Dover license plate, also led to the investigation.

Yale's Football Song

It is a Yale tradition that "Boo-Boo" the football song of that university was introduced to the class of 1901 by Albert Humm. Humm said after he had heard it sung in the South Sea Islands. As a native of the island he had been there for centuries and Markwald started the class singing it simply as a folk song. Another student, Allen Macomber, heard it sung as a group song then as a football air, finally having it set to music as a popular song. — Detroit News.

"Soon, through various connections, Little became acquainted with the mayor, and succeeding in arranging 'protection' at the cost of $50. Monthly dividends were to be given to the mayor. Little used marked money," and this money was found on Groh.

"When Little informed me, I ordered him to throw Groh in jail and try to see that he was held without bond. John Cole, Steubenville dry officer, assisted Little."

Beetham said that the finding of 500 gallons of whiskey in a broken-down truck in Harrison-co, which had been towed by a car bearing a Dover license plate, also led to the investigation.

INDICT CITY OFFICIALS

CAPE MAY, N. J., March 22—Mayor Joseph G. Champion, head of Ocean City, N. J. for 23 years and his entire police force of 21 men today were under indictment charged with running a "wide open" town. A citizen's committee charges the administration with permitting bootlegging and gambling places in the city. Thirteen alleged proprietors of the places complained of were also indicted.

Yale's Football Song

It is a Yale tradition that "Boola Boola," the football song of that university, was introduced to the class of 1901 by Albert Hum Marchwald after he had heard it sung in the South Sea Islands. As a native ditty it had been sung there for centuries, and Marchwald started the class singing it simply as a folksong. Another student Allan Macomber Hirsch took it up as a group song, then as a football air, finally having it set to music as a popular song—Detroit News

NOW ABLE TO WALK WITHOUT PAIN: PRAISES HOYT'S

Retired Mail Carrier Grateful To Famous Prescription For New Health.

Mr. J. B. Shirley, who resides at 76 N. Brennell St., Chillicothe, Ohio, is still another well known resident of this vicinity who is publicly endorsing Hoyt's Compound which is the famous prescription now being introduced to crowds every day at Wilder's Drug Store, Circleville, O.

MR. J. B. SHIRLEY.

Mr. Shirley is well known to everyone throughout this entire section having been a mail carrier in Chillicothe for over 12 years and finally gave up this work because of rheumatism which had bothered him for eight years before he had gotten to be a great victim of the bowel trouble which made it necessary for him to be continually taking different kinds of laxatives and strong physics in order to obtain the slightest relief from his troubles. He was also troubled with his kidneys which broke his rest several times each night and he stated above the rheumatism settled in his joints, forcing him to use a cane. He had tried numerous kinds of medicines but was unable to find anything to give him the relief he desired. How Hoyt's quickly ended this well known man's suffering and made it possible for him to walk and get around without the use of his cane is told in Mr. Shirley's complete statement which follows:

"Have been a resident here in Chillicothe for several years," said Mr. Shirley. "All of my friends and acquaintances throughout this territory know that during the past 20 years I have suffered intense pain and misery from rheumatism. I carried mail for over 12 years and finally had to give up this work as the rheumatism grew steadily worse. This trouble caused me no end of expense and worry. I was continually taking STRONG PHYSICS but these only seemed to bring relief for the time being and would soon wear off leaving me in a worse condition than before. Kidneys were weak and deranged and broke my rest several times each night causing me to feel tired and worn out and draggy the following day, just as though I had never been to bed. When I kept seeing letters of praise which were received every day here in Chillicothe from people who had taken this great medicine and had gotten relief from it after everything else had failed I knew at once that it must have merit. I can now truthfully say that I am able to get around without the use of my cane and feel better than I have felt during the past 20 years, after taking the Hoyt's Compound. My kidneys are strengthened, bowels are regulated and my appetite is very much improved through the use of this famous prescription and I am glad to be able to endorse it to other sufferers."

Hoyt's Compound is now being introduced and explained every day at Wilder's Drug Store, Circleville, Ohio.—Adv.

Millinery Opening

Friday and Saturday, March 22 and 23

A Most Unusual Display

You will see myriads of shapes from the cleverest American and Parisian designers—hats that you will see for the first time on this occasion, and most admirably and individually suited to the facial contours of the varying ages. Our opening will create the greatest interest among the many women who look forward to this event, but we feel that this season's display surpasses by far any previous opening in styling, variety and beauty.

Chic new creations with droops and dips that make them so becoming and give the wearer that swagger air now so fashionable. It is impossible to accurately describe the novel trimming methods—the cut-outs, swirls, applied designs, tucking effects and beautiful jeweled adornments used in so many different ways that no two hats have the same effect. Hats were never more lovely. We cordially invite you to this 1929 opening.

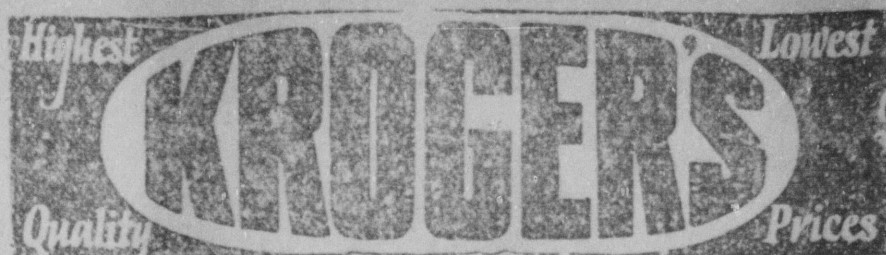

OUR BEAUTY PARLOR

Will be opened and ready for you, too. An expert operator to serve you at all times.

Manager Hendricks Says Pete Donohue Will Make or Break Team.

(By James L. Killgallen)
ORLANDO, FLA., March 22 — Pete Donohue, a great pitcher when he is right, will "make or break" the pitching staff of the Cincinnati Reds this year the manager of the club, Jack Hendricks, indicated in a chat with this writer.

"If Donohue is right, we'll have a fine array of flingers," said Hendricks. "We'll have Luque, Lucas, Rixey, May and others, and we're bound to make it tough for every club in the league."

Just as Hendricks was saying this a tall, well built chap in golf togs came into the hotel lobby. It was Donohue. We button-holed him.

PETE SEES GOOD YEAR
"I think I'll have a great year," Pete told the writer. "I am in fine condition, better than at any time in years. You know I didn't sign until April 26, last year and didn't report to the club until May 2. I caught the flu and only took part in 31 games."

"I'll be ready from the opening bell this season."

Donohue has not been successful for two years but he is the picture of health. This is his eighth year with the Reds and during that period he has pitched some remarkable ball. He has never played with any other team. Pete is a Fort Worth, Texas, boy and came direct to the Reds from Texas.

There are still a few old timers who refuse to ride in automobiles, and it's quite likely too that there are certain folks who do not believe in borrowing money either no matter how urgent their need. But the great majority of people today realize that it is a distinct advantage to be able to depend on a strong financial concern for a loan when they need it.

There is no risk in borrowing from an organization that makes a business of loaning; and to reassure those who may be skeptical The City Loan welcomes the opportunity to explain in detail how loans are made—how they are paid—and how friendliness and courtesy enters into every City Loan transaction.

FROSH GIRLS BEAT SENIORS

First Year Sextet Has Clean Slate in Intra-Mural Tournament.

Freshmen girls' team defeated and eliminated the senior girls from the high school tourney Thursday by a score of 33 to 8. The superb guarding of the freshmen held the seniors to this score. During the second and third quarters the seniors gained but two points while the freshmen made 13 points.

Fitzpatrick and Hitler were high scorers for the freshman and Kuhns and Roof for the seniors.

The freshmen are the only team that have a perfect record. Today the freshmen will battle the sophomores for the championship. Jones coached the winners and Crist and Neff coached the losers. Harold Dumm refereed.

Senior boys' team again displayed their ability in winning games, when they defeated and eliminated the sophomore five by a score of 26 to 7. They also have a perfect record and will play the juniors tomorrow for the championship.

Barnes and Grant starred for the seniors and Rader and Barnhart for the sophomores. Heeter and Phillips coached the winning team and Russell and Davis the losers. John Heiskell refereed.

MAGICIAN BOOKED

U. S. Jones, of Chicago, known to the theatrical world as "Ulysses the Great," will present an entertainment of "Wonder Plays" at the Second Baptist church on Thursday and Friday evenings, March 28 and 29, under the auspices of the church. Jones, considered the world's master colored magician, assembles the mystery, art and laughter of many lands into a performance which will start nightly at 8:30 o'clock.

PORT IS HELD BY FEDERALS

Despite the assaults of the rebels and their superiority in numbers, Gen. Jaime Carrillo's federal troops are still holding the important port of Mazatlan, according to Mexico City advices today.

The federal garrison in Mazatlan is believed to number 2,500 men, while the rebel force of Gen. Roberto Cruz, which is attacking the federal trenches and recruits, numbers about 5,000.

The 6,000 federal reinforcements ordered from Torreón to relieve the Mazatlan garrison are expected to reach the scene of conflict tonight.

Gen. Flutarco Elias Calles, commander in chief of the federals, has ordered Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan into Chihuahua, with 13,000 men to give battle to the rebels in that state. Gen. Almazan's army consists of 12 regiments of infantry 16 regiments of cavalry and one regiment of artillery.

"RHEUMATISM IS NOW A MEMORY," KONJOLA LAUDED

His Condition Was Considered Hopeless; Master Medicine Achieves Another Victory.

MR. WEST T. POWELL.

"Thanks to the new Konjola, the rheumatism with which I suffered for years, is now a memory," said Mr. West T. Powell, 6207 White avenue, Cleveland, Ohio. "How I tried to find escape from the clutches of this painful ailment. My efforts were followed only by failure after failure—disappointment after disappointment. Stomach trouble added to my misery. Gas formed after every meal, causing bloating and heart oppression. The rheumatism was so bad that I could hardly get around."

"I read and heard so much about Konjola, and the experiences of those who had tried this modern compound, that I wondered if it would help me. Imagine my joy when I realized that Konjola was helping me. With the very first bottle I knew that at last I had found the right medicine. I grew steadily better, and the stomach trouble was relieved first. Then the rheumatic pains became less and less, until finally they disappeared altogether. How wonderful it is to be well again, free from indigestion and the terrible rheumatism. I shall never cease to praise Konjola for the wonderful relief it brought to me."

Konjola is sold in Circleville, Ohio, at Hamilton & Ryan's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

Wood Turns to Agate

Next time you come across a petrified tree it may interest you to know that in a few centuries more it will become agate from which the jewelry and marbles of another age may be made. Up to a few centuries ago, notes the Farm Journal, this woodstone was highly prized as a magic charm, and was believed to be able to do everything from stopping the flow of blood to cutting a hurricane.

SOROSIS CLUB IS ENTERTAINED

A very pleasant time was enjoyed Monday evening, March 18, when the president, Mrs. Edna Newhouse, of Williamsport, delightfully entertained the Sorosis club at the home with 22 members and three guests present. The home was decorated in keeping with St. Patrick's day.

The meeting was called to order by the president followed by the opening song, "America, the Beautiful." The scripture lesson was read by Miss Mary White followed by the Lord's prayer and the reports of the secretary and treasurer.

During the business session, Mrs. Newhouse, president, presided.

In keeping with St. Patrick's day an Irish program prepared by the leader, Miss Mary White, was given as follows:

Piano solo... Miss Twila West Reading, "St. Patrick"....

... Mrs. Pearl Dresbach Piano solo... Miss Mildred Darrah

Detting, "The Soul's Spring Cleaning".... Miss Nellie Nessel

Vocal solo, "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling,"....

... Mrs. Beskie Schleich Reading, "The Time to Live"

... Mrs. Thelma Dent Vocal solo, "My Wild Irish Rose"

... Miss Mildred Darrah During the social hour interesting contests afforded much amusement. Winners of the contest were: Mrs. Esta Dipton, Mrs. Alice Schleich and Miss Wanda Mc-

Neal.

At the close of the meeting the hostess assisted by Mrs. Alice Schleich served delicious refreshments of salad, sandwiches and coffee.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Elizabeth Whitten, Monday evening, April 15.

O. S. U. STUDENTS ARE GUESTS AT CLUB

Miss Ruth Holman entertained an extra table of guests Thursday night when she was hostess to her bridge club. Among these four additional players were Miss Margaret Adkins and Miss Dorothy Adkins who have recently moved to Circleville. They are students at Ohio State University and are spending the spring vacation with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Hoadley Adkins of E. Main-st.

After the usual number of bridge hands had been played the scores were tallied, and Miss Margaret Adkins was awarded the prize for making the highest score.

LENT

In holy Lent
The penitent
Is sorry for his sins.
He mends his ways

I know his ways
From bygone days—
I'll get him later on."

Bright Little Raymond

Raymond had begun to go to school.

One morning his teacher was trying to impress upon her pupils the idea of self-reliance. It so happened that a certain small boy had been late on this particular morning. His excuse was that his mother had overslept, forgotten to call him, and breakfast was late. Hence the lecture of self-reliance.

"You have fathers and mothers to work for you now," concluded the teacher "but what will you do after you've grown up? Who will work for you then?"
Raymond's hand shot up. "Our wives, of course," he replied.—London Fil Rts.
